

Ensuring Grid Readiness: Renewable NSP/AEMO SCADA Compliance Testing

Connecting a renewable energy facility to the grid is no small feat, and NSP SCADA compliance testing is one of the most critical milestones in that journey.

In October, our client achieved a major success as their renewable energy project successfully passed NSP and AEMO compliance testing, paving the way for grid registration and energisation. This accomplishment contributes to a significant step toward their net-zero vision and Australia's broader renewable energy goals.

ACE is proud to have stood alongside our client throughout the process, from preparation to on-site testing, troubleshooting, responsive support, and collaborative problem-solving. Challenges can arise, but success comes from how we face them together.

Congratulations to our client and project partners for this milestone achievement. ACE is honoured to play a part in powering reliability and progress where it matters most.

Delivering Certainty: Switchroom SCADA FAT

In Oct., ACE engineers worked collaboratively with electrical contractors, owner's engineers, and OEM equipment technicians to fast-track SCADA testing for a 33 kV switchroom.

Through teamwork and dedication, we ensure the testing was done according to the plan, ensuring performance, compliance, and confidence for our client's project delivery.

We celebrate this milestone as another example of partnership in action.

Explore Our Switchroom SCADA Solutions

Building Stronger Foundations: ACE Expands Its Control Cabinet Manufacturing Capability

ACE has strengthened its capability in operational technology cabinet manufacturing by signing a new partnership with a leading national supplier. This collaboration enhances our capacity to deliver high-quality, fully integrated control systems, supporting faster project turnaround and greater reliability for our clients.

By working closely with trusted partners, ACE continues to uphold engineering excellence from design through to delivery, providing dependable solutions for both large and small-scale projects.

Learn More

Welcoming Our New HR Manager

We're excited to welcome our new HR Manager - Heather Ville to the ACE team. With extensive experience in people management, recruitment, and organisational development, Heather brings a strong commitment to fostering a positive and high-performing workplace culture.

This appointment strengthens ACE's focus on supporting our growing team and ensuring our people remain at the heart of every success.

We Are Hiring

Thank you for being a valued customer and partners. If you have any questions or need assistance, don't hesitate to reach out to us at sales@acectrl.com